It will be observed that no Democratic paper in the country, has yet objected to the candidacy of Jeff. Davis for the United States Senate.

It is reported again that Mr. Tilden "never looked better in his life." This is a campaign lie, and is gotten up to bother Thurman and Hendricks.

The Yazoo plan meets the approval of the Democracy of the United States. There is strength in that plan of organization. When an opposition candidate is told to quit the canvass on the peril of his life, he immediately sees the force of the argument, and steps down and out.

In Franklin county, Ohio, there is a Vesuvius convulsion among the Democrats. They are dissatisfied with Ewing, and discouraged at the outlook. Twenty of the most active and influential Democrats have bolted and are now engaged in the work of defeating the Democratic ticket.

Just reflect for a moment on the "splendid campaign" Mr. Joseph Rankin is making in Wisconsin for the cause of the Democracy! Mark his energy, his dash and vigor, his enthusiasm and his hope. It is enough to make a Democrat's "head swim," to seriously think about it.

It gives the Democrats much grief that Alexander Mitchell won't allow himself to be a candidate against Governor Smith. If Mr. Mitchell was politically ambitious, and a little foolish, the Democrats would strike a bonanza in picking him up for a candidate. His barrel is of the right kind.

The young Democracy of Illinois are organizing Tilden and Hendricks' clubs, but the old Democracy propose to show the boys that they can't run the national campaign. The barrel which Tilden constantly holds up for view, is seducing the young politicians of the Democratic party.

Vice President Wheeler is of the opinion that the Presidential contest will lie between Blaine and Sherman to a certain extent, and that there are some chances that General Grant will be the nominee only in the event, however, that there is a quarrel between Blaine and Sherman. The Republicans don't propose to quarrel in 1880—they have more important work on hand.

Here is an item which the friends of the extra session of Congress can hardly read without a blush. It shows the practical working of the Bourbon plan to rob the United States Marshals of the power to arrest criminals. This week Captain John Secrest, a mail contractor in the Indian Territory, was found murdered by the wayside, and robbed of his money a large amount of which he had about him. He was murdered by a gang of desperadoes which infests that country and whose crimes are constantly increasing. But how is this condition of things to be remedied? The United States District Court which has jurisdiction over the Territory, is now powerless to take any steps to bring the desperadoes to justice for the reason that the Confederate Congress refused to make any appropriations to meet the expenses of the Marshals. The result is: crime will increase in the Territory, and the Court will be unable to take any steps to suppress it.

A few days ago Mr. Jefferson Davis was quietly interviewed in regard to the Senatorial question, when he said he did not authorize any one to use his name in connection with office, and further that he was not a candidate. During the interview Mr. Davis took occasion to say: "I have been elected to the United States Senate three times and appointed once, and I have never yet been a candidate for the position." In response to this, the New York Tribune very pertinently asks: "Did Mr. Davis ever hear the conundrum about the boy who said, 'That's girl's father is my father and her mother is my mother, yet she is not my sister?' A great many people have puzzled over that conundrum. The answer to it, as everybody now knows, is, 'The boy lied.' Mr. Davis has been Senator three times by election and once by appointment, but was never a candidate. No more is he a candidate now. All the same he may be elected, and he is very careful to say that has not authorized anyone to speak for him."

The steamship Scythia which arrived in New York Tuesday evening from Liverpool in addition to bringing over to this country the distinguished Englishman and prominent member of Parliament—Hon. Thomas Bayley Potter—brought over $265,000 in gold bars and American gold coin. Those who don't exactly see the importance of the "balance of trade" being in our favor will probably appreciate it now when they are told that this large amount of gold was shipped to this country to apply on the balance of trade account with England. That account stands in our favor to the amount of many millions of dollars each year, and the balance due us must be paid in gold. Now if those who can't see any improvement in the times will consider that when the panic set in this balance of trade was scores of millions of dollars each year against us and that this country was compelled to pay out gold to settle it, and will now consider that the scales have been turned and the balance is hundreds of millions in favor of the United States and that gold is coming in instead of going out, they will readily see what a vast improvement has been made in the condition of the country during the past one or two years. As the United States must export more largely than ever before of grain and the products of our manufacturing establishments, that important balance will be more largely in our favor this year than ever before known.

THE CAUSE OF THE FEVER AT MEMPHIS.

A few weeks ago Dr. J. P. Dake, a prominent physician of Nashville, Tennessee, visited Janesville, and while here expressed to the editor of the Gazette that there would be no epidemic of yellow fever in the Southwest during the present year, and gave his reasons why he entertained that opinion. Dr. Dake is counted one of the most experienced and able physicians in Nashville, and during a long practice has written much on yellow fever, a subject which he has thoroughly studied and upon which he is regarded good authority. He has recently written an article for the Nashville Daily American in which he tells how the fever came at Memphis this year and what should be done about it in a public way. He says that his opinion that the fever would not be epidemic was based upon the history of the epidemics of the disease in the Mississippi valley; and further that he counted upon a thorough cleaning up of the haunts of the disease—a destruction of the clothing, bedding, carpets, and other things infected by contact with the victims of the fever, and a proper disinfection of houses, yards, closets, and other places, which could afford a repository for the preservation and a field for the propagation of the seeds of the disease.

The fatal mistake the Board of Health and the citizens of Memphis made was in neglecting to take the necessary sanitary precautions to prevent the reappearance of the disease. To a very large extent they are responsible for the calamity which has befallen that unfortunate city. Dr. Dake says that while the streets were cleaned, there was no thorough inspection and inquiry necessary to reach the clothing, bedding and other personal domestic articles which were filled with yellow fever germs, and hence the re-occurrence of the fever. For this reason the citizens of Memphis do not receive as much practical sympathy as they did last year when the disease was imported from New Orleans. As a matter of course, he says "it was reasonable to suppose that the severe lessons of 1878 would lead to the destruction of the nests of the disease; but the sudden and unprecedented revival of business occupying the time and taxing the energies of the citizens from the day the disease ceased to be epidemic on through the winter and spring, and the financial embarrassments and change of form in the city government, prevented that thorough search and crusade in the haunts of the fever, which the safety of the people and of the surrounding country sternly demanded."

Again he condemns the Board of Health for the course pursued by them upon the appearance of the disease. When less than half a dozen cases were reported to the Board at first, they became as demoralized as the citizens, and advised the people to close up their business and flee from the city, which they did in a manner that was nothing less than a stampede and a panic. This made matters worse than before, for it not only created a panic, paralyzing the people by fear, and suspending business, but it did something worse—the fleeing people carried the disease in their clothing and bedding and trunks, "a source of danger not only to themselves, but likewise to the families and communities into which they might go.

Dr. Dake still thinks that though the fever is epidemic, it will not prove so general nor fatal as last year. He clings pretty closely to the theory the fever, will not be epidemic two or more years in succession, when the proper means are taken to prevent a re-occurrence of the disease. He says "it will be the duty of the National Board of Health and of our State Board of Health during the coming winter, to aid the municipal authorities in Memphis in the thorough destruction of whatever property may be necessary, and in other requesite measures for protection, not only of that city, but of the whole country, from a repetition of the evils of this year."

It takes the sun's light about eight minutes and a quarter to reach the earth, and we do not see the sun until about eight minutes after it has risen, while we see it apparently above the horizen for the same time after sunset. If we imagine ourselves transported to Neptune, the most distant planet of the system, we shall find that it takes light four hours and ten minutes to traverse the space intervening between the sun and the planet. Therefore this long period must elapse between the real and apparent sunrise on this far away member of the family. As the sun on the boundary of his domain only gives out a thousandth part of the heat and light we enjoy it is not probable that the rush of emigrants, to Neptune will be very great, at least of beings constituted like those living on this planet. But it gives an idea of the amazing extent of the solar system, when it is known that it takes light, moving with a velocity of over 185,000 miles per second, more than four hours to reach its extreme verge. This, too, is but half the breadth of planetary space as known at present, and light would require over eight hours to reach the orbit of Neptune.

A BOSTON BLAZE.

Tremont Temple Almost Completely Destroyed—The Fine Organ Ruined.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 14—Fire broke out to-night in the rear portion of the roof of Tremont Temple, adjoining the rear of the Parker house. The flames got pretty good headway before the arrival of the fire department, and before the engines got fairly at work the roof was destroyed and a portion of the walls on the side and rear had fallen in, almost completely destroying the building. The fine organ, near which the fire broke out, is ruined, and the building very thoroughly gutted. The blaze soon assumed the proportions of an extensive conflagration, and the proximity to the Parker House caused great alarm among the guests, nearly all of whom had retired, but made rapidly ready for speedy exhit. Beyond the slight scorching of the walls in the rear portion of the hotel, no material damage, however, was done. The loss on the temple, owned by the American Bible Society, is estimated at from $100,000 to $120,000. Several firemen were injured by falling walls, but none it is thought dangerously hurt.

Tremont Temple was occupied by numerous Baptist Associations, the most important being the Baptist Book Concern. It was also used for the meeting of the national temperance organizations, and various organizations of a similar character. There was great excitement during the fire.

MEMPHIS.

The Fever Spreading Rapidly, and All the Hopes Centered in an Early Frost.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 14—The fever took a sudden jump to-day, and now, threatens to become general throughout the city. Forty cases were officially reported to the Board of Health, of which thirty were colored. This does not include the cases that are being treated by physicians and nurses and by the Howards beyond the corporation line, where at least a dozen or more developed to-day.

The fever is spreading rapidly, too, which is anything but encouraging when it is considered that a long time intervenes between now and frost. Last year it did not begin to spread into the country until September, so it would be sheer nonsense to try and form conclusions of the future progress of the disease in its march toward those cities and towns that were scourged last year.

The authorities are now feeding about 3,000 people in the various camps and there is not a single case of fever reported at any of them.

Bartlett, Tennessee, has enforced strict quarantine against Memphis. Several persons who left this city early this morning, for the purpose of going East, although armed with the necessary inspection papers from the agent of the State Board in this city, were not permitted by the authorities at Bartlett to board the train, and they were forced to return here. Bartlett evidently thinks herself superior to the State Board of Health.

A D Langstaff, President of the Howard Association, leaves to-night for Cario, Ill., as a delegate of the Safety Committee, to urge upon the National Board of Health, at its meeting, which is understood will be held in that city on Saturday, the adoption of the plans submitted by Dr Jerome Cochrane, and indorsed by the Hon John Johnson, for the further depopulation of Memphis, the isolation of all cases of fever, and the disinfection of every dwelling in the city.

THE TEMPLE OF HONOR.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 14—The supreme council of the Temple of Honor of the world, met here on Wednesday for its thirty-third annual convention. The council will last several days. About sixty delegates are present, coming from all parts of the country. During the year just passed 6,444 persons were initiated, and the order now numbers 18,080. Yesterday was occupied in reading various official reports for the year and in the exemplification of the secret and unwritten work of the order. The officers of the grand temple of this State treated the representatives to a drive about the city to-day. To day's session was devoted to routine business, much of which is uninteresting to the public. Among other things the supreme council decided that it is a violation of the principles of the order for a member to indulge in the habitual use of opium. The proposition whether the order should confine its membership to white persons or not was discussed. It was admitted that practically to change as proposed would bring in but few colored men, hence it was deemed, for the sake of harmony, best to refrain from tinkering with the constitution of the order.

MORMON TROUBLES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The Herald's Washington correspondent states that a cabinet officer apprehends trouble growing out of the Mormon question. It appears as if the Government would have to put its foot down with emphasis. There are six companies of the Fourteenth Infantry at Fort Douglas, and more could be readily concentrated there. The tenor of the dispatches from Utah show an irritated condition of the people, and now that the intentions of the administration are known, they are not calculated to soothe the feelings of the mormon elders.

A NEW DEAL.

PALMYRA, Aug. 13.—Negotiations are nearly completed for transferring the Bidwell house and Big Spring property to the possession of a Chicago stock company of Jews for the purpose of enlargement, remodeling and general improvement, as a summer resort exclusively for those of the Jewish faith. Fully half a million dollars will be expended in this way as soon as the necessary details can be completed.

GENEVA LAKE.

GENEVA LAKE, Wis., Aug. 14—An excursion party of 400 people from Chicago, under the auspices of the Hesperia Lodge, sailed around the lake to-day. A pier at one of the landings broke down and precipitated forty people into the water, several of whom were slightly injured.

LABORING MEN.

A Comparison of Wages and Prices at Three Different Periods.

A practical and satisfactory way of showing the improved condition of laboring men is by a comparison of wages and prices at different periods of time in the United States. The Boston Traveller furnishes some statistics of this character that deserve much consideration. Three periods are selected: 1860, when prices were low, 1872 when the war prices were still at their height, and 1878, when we had again touched bottom and found prices correspondingly lowered. Ten of the most important trades are compared, together with the price of ten principal items of expenditure of each period. In this way the relations between wages and prices are ascertained. Beginning with the 1860, we find that the average farm laborer was receiving (with board) $3.40 per week, the teamster $5.49, the carpenter $9.92, the stone mason $11.45, the cotton weaver $7.45, the wheelwright $10.64, the mechanic operator (female) $5.33, the mule spinner $6.33, the machinest $9.64, the compositor $14 83. So much for the wages. Now for the price of food in 1860: Good flour was selling at $7.14 per barrel, rice at 7½ cents per pound, tea at 54¾ cents, sugar at 8½ cents, beef at 11 cents, butter at 21¾ cents, potatoes at 59 cents per bushel, coal at $6.40 per ton, wood at $6.49 per cord, while the rent of a six room tenement, such as is needed by the average family in tolerable circumstances, was $7.54 per month. Passing to the condition of labor and the food markets in 1872, we notice considerable fluctuation. The farm laborer, formerly content with $3.40 per week, now received $5.77½, an increase of 70 per cent over 1860: the teamster received $10.67, and increase of 97 per cent; the carpenter $14.63, an increase of 47 per cent; the mason $21.33, an increase of 75 per cent; the cotton weaver $10.67, and increase of 38 per cent; the wheelwright $17.77, an increase of 95 per cent: the mule spinner $10.70, an increase of 49 per cent; the machinist $14.40, an increase of 40 per cent; and the compositor 25 88, an increase of 73 per cent. Taking the average, we find that wages in these ten trades had risen 68 per cent.

Did prices rise in like proportion? Flour was selling in 1872 for $12.75 per barrel, an advance of 78 per cent on the price of the same grade twelve years before; rice brought 11¼ cents per pound, an advance of 50 per cent; tea, 69 cents, an advance of 26 per cent; sugar, 10½ cents an advance of 20 per cent; beef, 19 cents, an advance of 72 per cent; butter, 39¼ cents, an increase of 80 percent; potatoes, $1.02 an advance of 72 per cent; coal $9 45 per ton, an advance of 44 per cent; wood, $10 12½ per cord an advance of 56 per cent; while the rent of a six room tenement had risen to $16 per month, an advance of 112 per cent. Taking the average of the advance in prices, we find it to be just 60 per cent. That is, these ten articles of consumption had risen in apparent value 60 per cent above their apparent value in 1860. The wages had at the same time risen 68 per cent; hence the laborer in 1872, notwithstanding the high prices demanded for the necessities of life, was in reality 8 per cent better off than in the year 1860, assuming these ten staple articles to fairly show the average of the increased cost of living.

Coming down to 1878, when values and so forth had reached "hard pan," we find that the farm laborer was receiving $3.75 per week, an advance on the amount paid in 1860 of 11 per cent; the teamster got $8, an advance of 50 per cent; the carpenter, $11.33, an advance of 14 per cent; the weaver, $9.71, an advance of 25 per cent; the mason, $13.37, an advance of 17 per cent; the wheelwright, 13.70, an advance of 30 per cent; the machine operator, $5.92, an advance of 7 per cent; the mule spinner, $7.41, an advance of 16 per cent; the machinist, $13.05, an advance of 35 per cent; the compositor, $18.28, an advance of 23 per cent. Taking the average, we find that wages have risen, since 1860, 23 per cent.

As to prices in 1878, flour was selling at $7.96 per barrel, a rise of 10 per cent over the price in 1860; rice at 9½ cents per pound, a rise of 22 per cent; tea at 60¼ cents, a rise of 10 per cent; sugar at 8¾ cents, a rise of 2 per cent; beef at 14½ cents, a rise of 26 per cent; butter at 25¼ cents, a rise of 14 per cent; potatoes at 97¾ cents per bushel, a rise of 60 per cent; coal at $6.45 per ton, a rise of 1 per cent; wood at $6.74 per cord, a rise of 4 per cent; while the rent of a six-room tenement was $9.45, a rise of 25 per cent. That is, living prices had advanced, compared with 1860, 17 per cent, while wages had advanced 23 per cent,—leaving in favor of the workingman a balance of 7 per cent.

These figures were taken from the reports of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor and from Young's work, in which no loose estimation is allowed to enter. The conclusion to which the statistics bring us is that the laboring man is in reality better off to-day than he was in 1860. The increase in his wages is larger than the increase of the price of the articles which he is obliged to buy. An examination of the Mass. Bureau of Statistics of Labor, in its last report, presents returns from 63,515 employes, or one-fifth of the whole number in the State, and the fact is deduced that the average weekly wages, on a gold basis, was 24 4-10 per cent higher in 1878 than it was in 1860. At the same time returns were collected showing the rise or fall in the various items of household expenditure and it was found that the average price was 14½ per cent higher in 1878 than in 1860. Approach the problem from which ever side you please, you will find a balance in favor of the laboring man.

In England a like advance has been made: From 1849 to 1859 prices fell 6½ per cent, while the wages of the cotton-spinner alone rose 25 per cent. From 1859 to 1875 prices rose 6 per cent, and wages again rose 25 per cent. The case of cotton-spinners was, however, exceptional. From 1866 to 1878 the wages of male laborers advanced 6½ per cent; of female laborers, 18 per cent. During the same period the consumption per head of the following articles of food, viz. bacon, wheat and wheat flour, sugar, and tea, increased 112½ per cent, while the average yearly earnings of the 24,000,000 laborers in the United Kingdom were £88,—an ample allowance for comfortable living.

Painless Death.

The sweet and pleasant expression that the face of the little girl, instantly killed recently by lightning, wore after death, gives additional force to the theory advanced by Prof. Tyndal in one of his lectures, that there is an entire absence of pain in death from lightning. It is popularly supposed that an impression made by the nerves, a blow or puncture is felt at the precise instant it is inflicted, but such is not the fact. The seat of sensation is the brain, and intelligence must be transmitted to that organ through a certain set of nerves, acting as telegraph wires, before we become conscious of pain. This transmission or telegraphing from the seat of injury to the brain takes time, longer or shorter according to the distance of the injured part from the brain, and according to the susceptibility of the particular nervous system operated on. Helmholtz, by experiments, determined the velocity of this nervous transmission in the frog to be a little over eighty-five feet per second, in the whale about one hundred feet per second, and in man at an average of two hundred feet per second. If, for instance, a whale fifty feet long were wounded in the tail, it would not be conscious of the injury until half a second after the wound had been inflicted. But this is not the only ingredient in the delay. It is believed that in every act of conciousness a determined molecular arrangement of the brain takes place, so that, beside the interval of transmission a still further time is necessary for the brain to put itself in order for its molecules to take up the motions or positions necessary for the completion of conciousness. Hemholtz considers that one-tenth of a second is required for this purpose. Therefore, in the case of a whale, one second and one-tenth would elapse before an impression made upon its caudal nerves could be responded to by a whale fifty feet long.

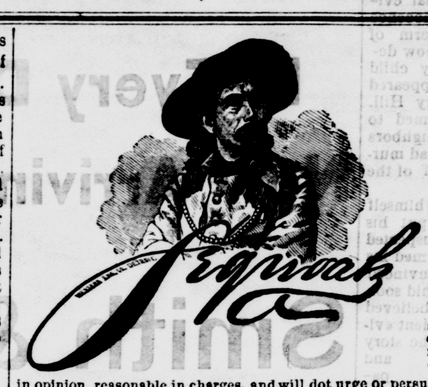

The Giant Cacti of Arizona.

A writer in the Philadelphia Times, describing a trip through Arizona, says, "We soon entered the land of giant cacti. I was never more surprised than at seeing the wonderful development of this plant in this region. I am satisfied that nowhere in the world such size is attained. The species called swartara grows to the enormous height of 60 feet and measures six feet in diameter. There are tens of thousands of this species. Most of them will measure from 8 to 2 feet in diameter, and reach a height of from 20 to 30 feet. Some have no limbs, and resemble a high post: others have from 1 to 3 arms. They seem to stand on the top of the sands with scarcely any root, and must receive their nutrition largely from the atmosphere. They are capped with a beautiful flower, and later with fruit. The Indians remove the fruit with a long spiked pole, and use it in large quantities. The center of this cactus is pierced with a hard, tough rod, which supports it in times of storm. So firm is this support that one is seldom found broken or blown down to the earth. When in a state of decay you can extract the center, which resembles more than anything else a fishing rod."

The Girl of the Period.

Jennie June in N. Y. Graphic.

She has nothing else to do, poor girl, but dress. It takes two-thirds of her time. The rest is devoted to shopping, sleep and company. There's not a trace of wear or neglect about her from the tips of her heels to the end of that last new ostrich feather. It's all spick and span new, glossy bright and just out of the band box. It costs pa a good round sum yearly. There isn't an hour of the day but some portion of that dress demands her attention. Monday she was looking at spring materials; Tuesday the same; Wednesday was the day of final selection; Thursday she hunted for the trimmings; Friday she brought them, and the day's mission for Saturday was with the dressmaker. There are two more of trying and fitting, at least. Recolect this is but one article of that fearful, wonderful, admirable make up. There are shoes, corsets, bonnets, hats and gloves all the time on the stocks or being looked after as built by contract.

"LUCK OF ROARING CAMP."

How Nearly Bret Harte's Story Was Once Refused by a Publisher.

New York Sun.

"And so you were the originator of the Overland Monthly Magazine and really stood sponsor for Bret Harte?" I said to Mr. Roman, of San Francisco.

"Yes sir. Like some of your prominent Eastern publishers, I feel that I must own and run a magazine. So I started the Overland, Its early life was a struggle, more particularly owing to its want of an editorial head, I made several trials and finally Mr. Harte was suggested to me. He came by appointment, and at the very moment I was considering a change of die for the cover. The cut representing a grizzly standing alone without surroundings seemed so bare of suggestion that I had determined on some alteration. My partner and chief clerk made several sketches, but they failed to please me. So intent were we on this subject that Mr Harte was neglected after a recognition. Then as a matter of easy introduction to the business he and I were to discuss, I called his attention to our want, never imagining that he could help us out. What was my surprise when, on taking a pencil, he simply drew two lines, placing our grizzly on the Pacific Railroad. The die needed no other finish. It seemed an inspiration, and I thought if he were so apt in this particular, what might he be capable of in illuminating the inside pages of my magazine.

"From that moment he had my full confidence. After a little talk I concluded an agreement with him to furnish an article a month, and to generally superintend the magazine. The preliminaries of that month over, and his opening article furnished, he and I started on a fishing excursion to Sonora. We were having an excellent time, blending magazine with sport, and had determined to no longer stay, when a letter from my partner, after reading the proof of 'The Luck of Roaring Camp," denouncing it 'as wholly indecent and unfit for publication in a monthly magazine,' caused us to hastily pack our traps and return.

"Mr. Harte was out of sorts the whole way, and I nursed my disappointment at his first venture. However, he said he had other matter that might please the fastidious C——, and there need be no delay in the month's issue. He did not try to explain away C——'s objections, but said that the argument was taken from real life, too real, perhaps, and that may be his philosophical treatment was at fault. On reaching my office I met several of the establishment ready with their condemnations, even to uplifted hands, and all prophesying that such an article would be a death blow on my magazine. Mr. Harte in the meantime had hurried to his home for other MSS. I took the proof home when I went to lunch and thought perhaps after reading it in that sanctity I might get a better idea how to caution and direct Mr. Harte as to magazine morals. Pursuing my habit of resting an hour on the lounge, I gave the proof to my wife to read aloud, as was a common practice, and lay with closed eyes expecting a fearful encounter with her, yet hoping for some favor from her critical judgment. I was struck particularly with its descriptive force and conciseness in narative, and thinking what a waste of imagination over so trivial an incident, when I heard a sob, and looking up my wife was in tears. That was enough. I rushed to the office, and without explanation, ordered the article inserted, and so 'The Luck of Roaring Camp' appeared. Our San Francisco papers were somewhat careful in their notices, and I waited most eagerly for the Eastern papers. They came, and were universal in their praises, and then I told my wife she was truly the sponser of Bret Harte."

A TRUE GYPSY STORY.

Finding a Long Lost Child—Dreadful Suspicions Against a Parent at Length Dispelled—The Fallacy of Circumstantial Evidence.

By Telegraph to the New York Herald.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 10—The sequel to the mysterious disappearance of a child in this city is now being developed, and the facts, as they come to light, transcend in some particulars the story of the loss of Charley Ross. It is another illustration of the fact that, while circumstantial evidence may be overwhelming, innocence may yet prevail. During the term of Mayor Kearney, of Wilkesbarre (now deceased), several years ago, a lovely child three years of age, strangely disappeared from its parents' home on Brewery Hill. The mother was distracted and seemed to support an accusation of the neighbors that the father, Morgan Thomas, had murdered it in order to rid himself of the responsibility of its maintenance.

Mayor Kearney at once set himself about ferreting out the matter, put his force of detectives upon the suspected parent's track, and privately informed his immediate friends that he was convinced of the guilt of the father, and would soon hang him for a cruel murder. He believed that he had in his possession sufficient evidence to more than substantiate the story told by the neighbors and by himself that the parent had murdered his child and successfully disposed of the corpse. The father at first indignantly repelled the charge. His character until this time had been untarnished. When he discovered, however, that the wife of his bosom appeared to entertain a like suspicion, he gave away to apparent remorse bordering on insanity. In the meantime the Mayor was active, and was formulating a theory sustained by an almost invincible train of evidence tending to show the guilt of the prostrate parent. The Mayor was truly sincere in his convictions, but ere he had completed his investigation he was suddenly struck down by death.

Years have passed by and the circumstance has long since ceased to be a theme of wonderment. A few weeks since a peddler, an old acquaintance of the family to which the missing infant belonged, chanced to be traveling in the vicinity of Tunkhannock, in the adjoining county, and discovered the long-lost child. He at once conveyed this intelligence to the parents in Wilkesbarre, and they repaired to the place named and fully identified it, but the people having it in charge refused to give it up. The parents returned to Wilkesbarre, and, procuring a warrant from Alderman Donohue, are now in quest of their child. Efforts will be made to punish the abductors.

How to Pack a Trunk.

Detroit Free Press.

Mr. Bowerman and wife left for the country yesterday. One could tell that their trunks were not over half full, as they were pitched into the baggage car with a crash. They began packing a week ago. When the subject was broached he said he preferred to pack his own trunk, and he didn't propose to take a whole month to it, either. All he intended to take along was an extra suit, and he could throw that in most any way. Night before last he began work. It struck him that he had better put in an extra pair of boots as a foundation, and he flung 'em in and braced 'em in the corners with his clean shirts. The shirts didn't seem to ride very well, and he braced them with two pairs of trousers. Then he stuffed his Sunday coat pockets with collars and cuffs, and found a place for it, used his white vests for "chinking," and the balance of his clothing just fitted in nicely.

"The man who takes over ten minutes to pack a trunk is a dolt!" said Mr. Bowerman, as he slammed down the lid and turned the key.

Mrs. Bowerman had been at it just seven days and seven nights, and when the husband went up stairs at 10 o'clock she sat down before the open trunk with tears in her eyes.

"You see how it is," she explained, as he looked down upon her with awful contempt. "I've got only part of my dresses in here, saying nothing of a thousand other things, and even now the lid won't shut down. I've got such a headache I must lop down for a few moments."

She went away to lo, and Mr. Bowerman sat down and mused:

"Space is space. The use of space is in knowing how to utilize it."

Removing everything, he began repacking. He found that a silk dress could be rolled to the size of a quart jug. A freshly starched lawn was made to take the place of a pair of slippers. Her brown bunting fitted into the niche she had reserved for three handkerchiefs, and her best bonnet was turned bottom up in its box, and packed full of under clothing. He sat there viewing sufficient empty space to pack in a whole bed when she returned and said he was the only real good husband in the world, and she kissed him on the nose as he returned the key.

"It's simply the difference between the sexes," was his patronizing reply, as he went down stairs to turn on the burglar alarm.

When that wife opened that trunk last night——! But screams and shrieks would avail nothing

A Valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions & Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles & Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostrate Gland and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, Etc. Etc. and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation, Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction.——During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceeded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in a neat box, enough to last a month, and sent in a plain wrapper by mail sealed for $3.—Two boxes, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure unless in severe cases) $5.——Three boxes lasting three full months, will stop emissions, and restore vigor, in the worst cases $7.—Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

(Send for a Descriptive Pamphlet giving Anatomical Illustrations, which will convince the most sceptical that they can be restored to perfect manhood, and fitted for the duties of life, same as if never affected. Sent Sealed for stamp to any one. Sold ONLY by the)

A MAZE OF MARRIAGE.

Bewildering Complications in the Life of the Youngs—The Matrimonial Career of Brigham—His Numerous Progeny—The Prophets Sojourn in Boston—The Favorites of the Harem.

Boston Herald.

The institution of polygamy, with its bewildering complications of marital relationship, is fruitful in startling and dramatic situations. The careers of Brigham Young and his numerous progeny abound, says The San Francisco Chronicle, with instances of domestic infelicity, mysterious maternity and curious conundrums of relationship. The melancholy tale of Lizzie Canfield, who claims to be the first wife of John Young, which has recently been made public, is but the key note to a long chapter of infidelity, misery and degredation, which commenced in the classic city Boston many years ago. In order to intelligibly unravel the maze of marvellous facts and novel episodes which form this story, it will be necessary to revert to a period of time some thirty-five years ago. It was then that Brigham Young and his associate missionaries of Mormonism commenced to disseminate throughout the various cities of the Eastern States the astonishing creed and code of morals which advocated blood atonement, encouraged polygamy and elevated assassination of principle of religious faith and duty. At the time of where he succeeded in making numerous converts to his disgusting belief, there lived in the city Augusta S. Cobb, the wife of a prominent citizen, and a lady of brilliant beauty and unusual refinement. She, like most of the other unfortunate individuals who became converts to Mormonism was persuaded to believe that the end of the world was near at hand, and to accept the mystic doctrine of the "affinity of souls." Brigham, pleased with his apt and lovely pupil in Mormon piety, took great pleasure in counselling her to aspire to a nobler and better husband than he to whom she was wedded, and to select for her future companion in the withering walks of wedlock some learned expounder of the Mormon creed, who would take pleasure in the pious occupation of "exalting her in the kingdom." Brigham's honeyed words and blandishments made a deep impress on the heart of the hitherto pure wife and affectionate mother, and, heedless of the happiness of her fond husband and helpless little ones, the infatuated woman rudely sundered the ties which united her family, and, accompanied by her youngest daughter, followed Brigham to the Rocky Mountains, the latter having left Boston at the time of Joseph Smith's death and became the head of the Mormon church.

THE LITTLE DAUGHTER of Mrs. Cobb grew up to womanhood under his roof, and, in her disgust for the vices and debasements of Mormonism, refused the infinitesimal fractions of the hearts of many much married Mormons, who wished her to ornament a niche of their harems. Finally, however, she became enamored of the manly graces of a merchant who was already the possessor of three wives, and consented to complete the connubial quartet. Her brother, who had reached manhood in Boston, came to Utah and married a handsome Mormon girl, the daughter of John Van Cott, once a resident of New York. Two children blessed their union, after which they separated, and Brigham, who never lost an opportunity to improve the personnel of his corps of wives, took the charming and voluptuous young mother for his bride, thus wedded the wife of his wife's son. Tuella, the elder of the two children referred to above, was the subsequent wife of John Young, and the young lady who caused such sorrow and ruin in the heart of Libbie, his other wife. Thus Brigham's son married in Tuella the daughter of his father's bride, the child of his step-brother Cobb, the grand-daughter of his stepmother, and his own niece. The senior for a time was a favorite in the prophet's harem. He was destitute of education himself, and hated the advantage which it gave to others over him, but he liked to have it around him in his own family, and he was proud to call Mrs. Cobb "one of my wives," when she was presented to strangers. He showed her the best attention that he was capable of showing to any person for a few years, but the perverted thoughts that had been poured into her ears in Boston had taken deep root, and she was again destined to show her teacher how well she had profited by his instructions. For him she had left Mr. Cobb in Boston, and for another she was ready to exchange him.

After the first flush of a polygamic marriage is over, and, perhaps, disappointment has been shown on one side or the other, "a new deal" is easily brought around. Mrs. Cobb was dissatisfied with Brigham, and he in turn was ready to give her up—she would be one less to support in his family, and he was willing for some one else to have her. The time came for the new love of Mrs. Cobb-Young to be declared. Brigham gave her audience and was all attention, anxious how to get rid of her, but, to his mortal chagrin and utter bewilderment, she quietly poured into his ears that "she wanted —to become one of his wives to eternity! She was not insane. She had believed the Mormon apostle who had taught her in Boston that "she could exalt herself by the choice of a husband who stood high in the kingdom, and that it made no difference whether the choice of her ambition was living or dead." In their fanatical preaching they had taught that Christ was a polygamist on earth, and "to the increase of his kingdom there was no end." Mrs. Cobb seriously made her selections, but the very honesty of the woman's logic staggered Brigham, and he wilted before the natural deduction of his own false teaching. He could not venture that far. He was too cowardly to meet the blasphemy which his own tongue had suggested, and he closed the controversy with the admission "that he could not seal her to Christ, but he would do the next best thing—he would seal her to Joseph Smith." The merchant who married the daughter in Utah apostatized from the faith of Brigham, and was cut off from the church for rebellion, and, of course, his three extra wives became an awkward incumbrance He was an honorable man, and, as he regained his senses, and saw Christianity differently, he provided for his polygamic wives, including Miss Cobb, of Boston, and she is again a marriageable lady, residing in Santa Cruz.

TO BE SEALED TO JESUS CHRIST"

Long and Short Sleepers.

Seaman and soldiers, from habit sleep when they will and wake up at will. Captain Barclay, when performing his wonderful feat of walking 1,000 miles in so many consecutive hours, obtained such a mastery over himself that he fell asleep the minute he lay down. The faculty of remaining asleep for a length of time is possessed by some individuals. Such was the case with Quinn, the celebrated player, who would slumber for twenty-four hours successively; with Elizabeth Orvin, who slept three-fourths of her life; with Elizabeth Perkins, who slept for a week or a fortnight at a time; with Mary Lydell, who did the same for successive weeks, and with many others more or less remarkable.

A phenomenon of an opposite character is sometimes observed, for there are other individuals who can subsist on a surprisingly small portion of sleep. The celebrated General Elliott was of this kind; he never slept more than four hours of the twenty-four. In all other respects he was strikingly abstinent, his food consisting wholly of bread, water and vegetables. In a letter communicated to Sir John Sinclair by John Gordan of Swine, mention is made of a person named John Mackey, of Sherry, who died in Strahnave, in the year 1797, aged ninety-one: he only slept on an average four hours in twenty-four and was a remarkably robust and healthy man. Frederick the Great of Prussia, and the illustrious surgeon John Hunter only slept five hours during the same period. The celebrated French General Pichegro informed Sir Gilbert Blaine that during a whole year's campaign he had not allowed himself above one hour's sleep in twenty-four.

CATARRH
SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.
SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH is a safe, certain, and permanent cure for Catarrh of every form, and is the most perfect remedy ever devised. It is purely a vegetable distillation, and is applied locally by insufflation, and constitutionally by internal administration. Locally applied, relief is instantaneous. It soothes, heals, and cleanses the nasal passages of every feeling of heaviness, obstruction, dulness, or dizziness. Constitutionally administered it renovates the blood, purifies it of the acid poison with which it is always charged in Catarrh, stimulates the stomach, liver, and kidneys, perfects digestion, makes new blood, and permits the formation of sound, healthy tissue, and finally obtains complete control over the disease. The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references. It is a great and good medicine, and worthy all confidence. Each package contains a Treatise on Catarrh and Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, and full directions for its use in all cases. Price $1.

An Enthusiastic Friend of Sanford's Radical Cure.
McHATTON, GRANT & BOWEN'S FIRE AND MARINE INSURANCE AGENCY,
925 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 7, 1877.
A. A. MELLIER, Washington Av., City.—Dear Mellier: I have for some years been troubled with Catarrh, and for the past two years have suffered seriously with it. Noticing your advertisement of SANFORD'S REMEDY (RADICAL CURE), I decided to try it. I have used only two bottles, and as a result I feel so much relieved that I presume on our personal relations and write this to you and ask that you take some measures to get it more prominently before the public, that others may have such relief as I have. I have recommended it to quite a number of my friends, all of whom have expressed to me their high estimate of its value and good effects with them.
I really think it particularly adapted to wants of St. Louis people, and they all ought to know of it, and those who need it should try it. I will risk the assertion that 1000 1 oz. vials (as a sample) to be given away will sell as many bottles.
Try some plan. Let the people have it; they need it. I believe I could sell 500 bottles myself—of course you could largely increase this number. Why not try it? Yours truly, WM. BOWEN.

LAME BACK
COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS
Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen,—One year ago I was seized with a severe attack of Rheumatism in my right hip, to which I was subject. I tried the various liniments and rheumatic cures, but without the least benefit, when my son, a druggist, suggested one of your COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS. The effect was almost magical, for, to my grateful surprise, I was almost immediately well again, and was able to work upon my farm as usual, whereas, before the application of the Plaster, I could do nothing, and every step gave me pain. A few weeks since, one year from the first attack, the disease returned, but I am happy to say the second Plaster proved as efficacious as the first, and I am now well. My wife wishes me to add that one Plaster has cured her of a very lame back. We think there is nothing in the world of remedies that can compare with the COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS for Rheumatism and Lame Back, and cheerfully recommend them to the suffering. Yours very respectfully,
ORLAND, ME., June 6, 1876. ROBERT COTTON.

NOT A QUACK NOSTRUM.
Gentlemen.—I hereby certify that for several years past I have used the VOLTAIC PLASTERS in my practice, and have never known them to fail in affording speedy relief in those cases for which they are recommended. They are not a quack nostrum, but a remedial agent of great value. Very truly yours, W. C. COLLINS, M. D.

—Justice Brooks was to-day kept busy in listening to a suit, in which two bushels of oats were involved. It took all day to get at the evidence.

—You might as well check off your seats for the Wallack combination next week. The tickets are at Moseley's and are meeting with a ready sale.

—Silas Hurd, of Fulton, sold to Chicago parties last week, two hundred bushels of clover seed, for which he received the snug little sum of $800, the parties taking the seed at his barn.

—William Doolan was brought into the police court to-day and pleaded guilty to being one of the gang of boys who stoned the windows in the round house. He was fined $1 and costs.

The boy scratched his head, and then looked up and said, "Jim was there, and Jack, and me, but Sodomy wasn't there. I don't know any such boy. No, sir, I don't know anything about him. No such fellow lives up that way."

—The Wallack combination will open at the Opera house next Tuesday evening with the Comedy of Errors. The prices are as usual, but the company is unusual. It includes four stars, Miss Genevieve Rogers, Frank Aikens, Owen Fawcett and Harry Rainforth, and a remarkable fine support. The tickets are meeting with a ready sale. On Wednesday evening they will present "Scrap of Paper."

BOUND FOR CHICAGO.

The excursion to Chicago had a most successful send off this morning. The train consisted of eight passenger coaches and a baggage car, and every inch of available room was taken. There were about seven hundred people on the train and all seemed in good spirits and full of expectancy. The excursion is the largest which has gone forth from this city in years, and a jovial good time willl doubtless fall to the lot of all.

The indications to-day are, for the lake region, cool northeast to southeast winds, rising barometer, and partly cloudy weather, with rain near Lakes Michigan and Erie.

DEATH OF WM. B. HAWES.

Many in this city and vicinity will be sadly surprised to learn of the death of William B. Hawes, who died suddenly at his home in Washington, and was buried last Wednesday. Mr. Hawes was for several years a resident of this city, and has many friends and acquaintances here. He came here about 1855 from Unadilla, New York, and engaged in the practice of law with Judge Conger, as a partner. He remained here until after the commencement of the war, when he removed to Washington, where he has since resided, with the exception of a short time which he spent at his home in New York. Last May he revisited his old friends here, and looked after some improvements of his property here. He seemed then in comfortable health and good spirits, and bid fair to live many years, and the news of his death follows with sad suddenness.

STRUGGLE WITH A TRAMP.

Last Wednesday a tramp came to the residence of R. B. Meach, who lives southwest of Beloit, and demanded something to eat. A young man named Coyle, who worked there and whose parents live in Beloit, refused to give the fellow anything, the folks being away from home. The tramp struck him with a stick, and he struck back with a shovel. The tramp then pulled a revolver and fired four shots at him, two of which hit him and the other two passed through his hat. He tried to get the revolver away and the tramp drawing a knife struck at him with that but Coyle managed to get this away from him and struck at the tramp with this wounding him in the shoulder, which seemed to satisfy the ruffian and he left. Young Coyle's most serious wound is in his right arm, the other being a mere flesh scratch. He will doubtless speedily recover from both.

TAKING LAUDANUM.

How a Main Street Woman Swallowed an Ounce of Poison, and Yet Didn't Die.

Yesterday afternoon the rumors of an attempted suicide began to float about, through the gossipy circles. The affair had been kept as quiet as possible but like all such occurrences, some close mouth sprung a leak, and the report spread then quickly. It appears that Mrs. Wulff, the wife of Emil Wulff, who keeps a saloon on Maine street, was found yesterday morning about half-past 1 o'clock in a condition which plainly indicated that she had been taking poison. Mr. Wulff hastened to call Dr. Sanborn who hurried to the place, and found that a half-hour before she had swallowed nearly an ounce of laudanum. The Doctor went to work to win her back to life by the usual means of emetics, and counteracting remedies, but the struggle was a hard and prolonged one. The woman was in such a condition that it was almost impossible to get her to swallow anything, and the only way to keep her from sinking into a deadly stupor, was by walking her up and down the floor. The Doctor and others were obliged to work over her for about four hours, before she was considered out of danger, but she was successfully brought to and bids fair to have a long life yet.

There seems to be some mystery as to how and why she took the poison, as since the danger was over, the matter has been kept remarkably quiet. It is stated that she was jealous of her husband, und thought that he paid altogether too much attention to another woman. Another reason stated is that he was abusive to her at times, when under the influence of drink, and that this discouraged her. Still another statement is to the effect that she had been tarrying too long at the wine when she concluded to shuffle off the coil. It is claimed also that she took it by mistake, and that she had no suicidal intention. If she really wanted to kill herself, she seems to have now at least changed her mind, and will doubtless rest satisfied with the experiment which came so near proving successful.

ROCK COUNTY'S HISTORY.

Mr. C. W. Butterfield, of Madison, is in the city looking after the interests of the history of Rock county which is being prepared by the Western Historical Company. Mr. Butterfield has been engaged to revise the work and put it in good shape, and the subscribers may rest assured that the work will be done well. Mr. Butterfield has had years of experience in writing local histories, and has done some very commendable work. He intends taking the material which has been gathered, and will put it in such shape that it will be a veritable history, of great worth, arranged methodically and written carefully. The manuscript will not leave his hands until it is just right in every respect, and we may look for a history of Rock county which will be of great value. All who know Mr. Butterfield by reputation will feel doubly assured of the successful completion of the work, now that it has fallen into his hands for revision. We have seen the published history of Kenosha and Racine counties, which contains a very full article on the State history from his pen, and one which has attracted much attention. That book has been very loudly praised by all who have seen it, and now that the entire revision of the manuscript concerning this county has been placed in Mr. Butterfield's hands, we may look for a volume which will exceed that in merit. Mr. Butterfield will remain until to-morrow, gathering material for some special articles, and getting some information needed by him. The publishers have done most wisely in engaging him, as it will fully insure the success of the work.

AN IMPENDING CRISIS.

There ought to be a meeting this evening of the Board of Health of this city, to take summary steps to avert the dangers which are likely to arise from the great outpouring of Janesville and vicinity to Chicago. The transition from the balmy breezes and exhilerating atmosphere of Rock county to the noisome vapor and poisonous effluvia of Chicago River, Bridgeport stinks and surrounding marshes, whence the offal from numberless rendering establishments, and the decaying carcasses of multitudes of animals are giving forth their destructive gasses to be inhaled by every person in the city—is so sudden as to be perilous. The conditions are most favorable for implanting the seeds of pestilence. Cholera and yellow fever are mild compared to the disease which will almost inevitably be generated where the contact with the foulest, most deceptive and most unhealthy stenches of nature is so direct. The emergency calls for immediate and energetic action. Disinfectants should be employed in every house which turned out an excursionist for Chicago, every garment taken on the trip should be burned; every passenger should be thoroughly examined to see if the seeds of disease could be found about him, and effectual guarantee should be enforced against those persons who from any cause remain in that iniquitous city for more than twenty-four hours.

Machinery Hall Torn Down.

From the Philadelphia Telegraph, Aug. 11.

Machinery Hall, which attracted so many visitors to the Centennial Exhibition, has disappeared from public sight, and soon the ground upon which it stood will be returned to its former state. All that now remains of it is about one-half the floor, a few piles of lumber, and some rubbish. Even the foundation wall which ran around the building is gone. Nearly all the stone has been purchased for the rebuilding of the recently burned Point Breeze Oil Works. There was over 800,000 square feet of tin, which found ready sale at three cents per square foot. For the 1,000,000 feet of flooring plenty of customers are found willing to pay the price of 1 cent a foot. Not to speak of the 70,000 panes of glass, (32x18 inches in size,) the 800,000 pounds of cast iron, 1,000,000 feet of white pine roof lumber, 800,000 pounds of wrought iron, the tens of thousands of feet of yellow pine that formed the finish of the offices and other parts of the interior, it would seem that the investment was anything but a losing one. Two of the towers or cupolas, each 35 feet square, that rose from the roof, together with about 700 window panes, a lot of brick and other material, have been presented to the Old Ladies' Home, Lehigh avenue and Broad street, where they have been turned into commodious and pretty summer houses.

The Cost of Raising a Boy.

The heaviest tax that can be imposed upon a nation is one that is paid in human lives. From whatever point of view the subject may be regarded, this conclusion is irresistible. If we look at it according to purely economical consideration we may obtain very remarkable results. It has been estimated that an actual money cost of £300 is incurred in raising a boy, cradled among the poorest classes, from birth to manhood. It does not require us to ascend very high in the social scale before we find that this estimate must be trebled. If we take what we may call the cost price of the human unit at any definite time, say at £500 on arriving at maturity, the producing power of the unit in question will bear some relation to that sum; the more costly and careful education producing, as a rule the more valuable result as to productive power. If the laborer who earns 14s. or 15s. a week adds £50 per annum to the wealth of the country, the physician, the scientific, military or naval officer, the barrister or the engineer may look forward to the time when his labor will be worth more than a hundred times that amount, even if appraised only by the price he actually paid for his time. Taking any producing individual, whether valued at £50 or £5,000 per annum, at any period of his career, no income tax to which he can be subjected can approach in its pressure the extravagant tax of death, for the payment of that tax at once annihilates the total earning power of which there was, until that moment, a fair mathematical expectation.—F. R. Condor, in the Popular Science Monthly.

GENERAL EFFECTS OF FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

"It is Perfectly Safe, and the Taste Pleasant,"

THE first apparent effect is to increase the appetite. It assists digestion, and causes the food to assimilate properly—thus the system is nourished. It also, by its tonic action on the digestive organs, induces more copious and regular evacuations. Its effect on the mucous membrane is such that easy expectoration is produced; not only are the air passages easily voided of the secretion already deposited but its collection is carried on in a healthy manner, while the formation of tubercle is retarded. The rapidity with which patients take on flesh while under the influence of the Syrup, of itself indicates that no other preparation can be better adapted to help and nourish the constitution, and hence be more effacious in all depression of spirits, shaking or trembling of the hands or body, cough, shortness of breath, or consumptive habit. The nerves and muscles become strengthened and the blood purified.

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites

Speedily and permanently cures Congestion of the Lungs, Bronchitis, Consumption, Nervous Prostration, Shortness of Breath, Palpitation of the Heart, Trembling of the Hands and Limbs, Physical and Mental Depression, Loss of Appetite, Loss of Energy, Loss of Memory. It will rapidly improve the weakened functions and organs of the body, which depend for health upon voluntary, semi-voluntary and involuntary nervous action. It acts with vigor, gentleness, and subtlety owing to the exquisite harmony of its ingredients, akin to pure blood itself. Its taste is pleasant, and its effects permanent.

Sold by all Druggists. $1.50 per Bottle
